

The NII LEAD Canada Big Data Leadership Summer Camp

Our vision: Aligned with Bruce Power, Bruce, Grey and Huron Counties, and school boards, to be recognized as an international model for rural youth and community engagement in the science, technology, cultural innovations, and global competencies for the 21st Century.

Where: Walkerton Clean Water Centre When: August 19-30

Why: To enable youth of the area to develop leadership skills to solve global challenges locally through applied research and training in science, technology, engineering, mathematics, and the trades. To be global leaders in the 21st century we need new levels of collaboration between elementary, secondary, post secondary education, trades, and entrepreneurs. Our next generations of innovators and leaders need to know they can achieve contributions of global significance – close to home.

Target Group: Grade 11's and 12's that are making principal decisions about their future occupation and learning, and can mentor others throughout the school year.

How: Through team building, leadership self awareness and Big Data problem solving, students can develop and propose solutions to globally significant challenges in energy development and distribution, agriculture production and distribution, as well as challenges to the social and environmental resiliency of our rural communities.

Partners: Nuclear Innovation Institute, LEAD Canada, STEM Fellowship, and Trinity Theatre.
